TWELVE MINUTES puts you into a time loop that breaks all your normal time constraints. Four years have passed since then and you relive the same terrifying experience over and over, time after time. In TWELVE MINUTES you play as James and his wife Jackie. James has worked for years as a detective for the LAPD. Jackie is a college student. You start out in a peaceful home, in a safe street in a safe neighborhood. But out of nowhere, a detective named Simon Brown breaks into your home and accuses your wife Jackie of being a suspect in her own murder. Beaten to death, your wife disappears, leaving only a note blaming you. And now, trapped in a nightmare, your mission is to find your way out. Using clues you find in the house, you need to figure out what exactly has happened, why it has happened, and how to escape it. Can you use the information you find to change the outcome of the story, to break the time loop and avoid being haunted for eternity? If so, escape from your fate. If not, beware of being abandoned in this time loop for eternity.
