I would like to have this video player to use a database for the video information so it can use the database to play the same file as many times as I want, with different lengths, without the user having to re-enter the video information everytime. Is it possible to have a database that has data that could be used for the video information, so that I can use this video player with these video information without having to re-enter the data every time? A: After some research and an Internet search, I found the answer to my question at: Basically, I can store my information
