A unique experience in which you become a pirate in the first person, DOA6: Pirates of the 7 Seas is the newest part of the DOA series in which you experience the action from the eyes of the main character. The 7 Seas is the perfect place for humans and animals to coexist! Monsters, sea monsters, and humans are rarely seen interacting with each other. However, there is a place called Pirate Island where the monsters and humans share the same environment. The rules there are a bit different. Though you must remain cautious when you set foot on the island, you will also have fun fighting against the weird and wonderful creatures that call the 7 Seas home. In this game, you will join the crew of the Lost Cats, a ship that was once a pleasure boat and has been transformed into a ship manned by strange and ferocious monsters. You will assist the crew in their adventure as you fight alongside them against enemies and monsters. - [Playable Character] You are a Pirate in the same position as a Pirate Hunter and a Mimiko like Hitomi from the DOA series. However, you can fight while wearing a Pirates of the 7 Seas costume. Your weapon moves as you do. You can perform a high speed attack, a medium attack, a low speed attack, jump, and move around freely while fighting, just like Hitomi. - Pirate Island's Monsters You will be helping the crew of the Lost Cats fight against the monsters they meet on their journey. You can battle against the following types of monsters: - Mermaids - Egg Monsters - Wyverns - Griffin - Bruisers You will battle alongside the Lost Cats against the monsters encountered on your journey. You can fight once every two days and have your equipment and weapons upgraded as you do. You can obtain a variety of new costumes by defeating monsters and earning EXP. - Extras You can take a photo of your unique costume and add it to your gallery. You will also earn an item ID (item ID). You can change your costume ID to be used in other games. ■ DOA6 Pirates of the 7 Seas Costume - Hitomi: (Playable Character) Spoiler that has been trying to make a living out of this small island for the last 40 years. The reason for this long stay is three of them have a tragic past. The young Sonja was found alone by a passing ship and both her parents died shortly thereafter. The only other one 'son' of these parents is an older man called, you guessed it, Robinson Crusoe. Together they manage to survive the brutal storms of the island, as well as the constant attacks of the people, the wild animals and the other plants and crops that need protection from the fierce animals and insects. What they lack the most is a good management system of the island and it will be up to you to help them. Without many resources, the game will be a bit different than most of the other resource games out there. Your job will be, with the help of Crusoe, to find the resources you will need to survive such as, seeds, water, food and various tools. You can also plan what kind of cultivation system you prefer, as well as what sort of food you would like to grow. After some time on the island, you will find a nice system for the regular elements. Aurum Bio is a real-time sandbox construction game designed to recreate natural ecosystems in a fascinating world of options, variable and unpredictable weather, and a carefully crafted society of other plants, animals and people. The game starts with a seedling, and the player can choose how to 'grow' it, from a seedling with a 2D seedling tray to a sprawling 100-meter city in a woodland. By spending the resources necessary to grow their farm, players can interact with the environment and other players, and affect the overall feel of the game. All actions can be recorded with a screenshot that can be stored, shared and used to make your own animations. The sandbox of Aurum allows for unlimited customization, simulation or reenactment of natural and human interactions that are otherwise not possible in traditional sandbox games. All of your actions in the game are recorded with screenshot and video recording, so you can instantly share those with other players for replay and communication. Tokiwa has a background of making games since the age of 8. He has a love for combining the cinematic quality of a comic with the writing and storytelling of a visual novel in the same game. In 2012 he published his first game, "Fairy Tales from the Enchanted King", a role-playing adventure visual novel containing three stories to play, featuring illustrations by renowned artists and animated sprites, music and sound effects. His other works include "Knights of the Loyal Order", a fantasy adventure game which was featured in Machinima "The Freelance" community and "The Smashers", a fighting game featuring hand-drawn sprites and custom game mechanics. From 2013-2015 Tokiwa graduated from Nara Institute of Technology, where he was a student of Game Design. While he is still an active member of the Game Design club he decided to experiment with a genre where he never worked on before, the RPG Maker Visual Novel. He played quite a few visual novels and decided to pick a fan-favorite series to adapt. With the help of his friend's musically gifted sister he collaborated with a local musician to compose a soundtrack for this visual novel. Then he went back to his studio and designed the artstyle for this visual novel, which is now in the process of getting approved by the studio for a full-fledged localization! TOKIWA GRAPHICS has helped thousands of indie game developers across the world gain a foothold in the industry. They are now working hard to bring the most recent and creative techniques to the indie game development world, in hopes of taking it to the next level. War's a fickle thing, like love, mostly. It's this weird combination of fact and fantasy. It's an amorphous blob of everything we hold close to our hearts, yet it keeps falling apart. Such is the case with war. It's not really a thing. It's an idea. A rumor. A promise. A vague, but alluring, unknown. So when it goes down, it goes down hard, and it's our job to lead it where it needs to go. It's our job to point the way to the people we love. But you've got to lead it, first. For so many, this time of year is a moment when the fear and excitement of war unsettle minds. For some, it's the idea of their loved ones getting caught in the crossfire. For others, it's the idea that the revolution will

Like this is the bizarre moment an armed robber barged into a family's and threatened to shoot a woman in the face. But when the intruder busted in to the Hawthorne-based house oman, who was asleep in the room, asked "Why?" he must have caught the whole thing on her hidden home y camera. Warning: Graphic content includes images of the robbery "Hi! Um, why are you doing this? What u doing? What do you want? You want money, guns? You want money, ain't you? You want guns, you want , do you? Yeah! You want money?" The attack left the mum-of-two in tears when the man threw a bag of e at her.
