It is used to indicate formatting and page layout, including text, images, audio, video, and other multimedia. HTML provides basic structural tags to describe the content of web pages, such as the tag, which shows the main heading of a document or the tag which separates list items. Additional tags can be used to format text, such as bolding text, underlining text, or italicizing text. Web pages are created by entering the tags indicating the page content. The tags are then formatted with CSS for presentation. From Wikipedia [Laser photocoagulation in idiopathic macular epiretinal membrane: long-term results]. To evaluate the long
